April 1, 2017: Motivational Interviewing Part I

Presented by Aaron Blackham, MSW, LSW (teachSBIRT Lead Social Work Faculty)

Motivational interviewing (MI) is an evidence-based practice for guiding people to make healthy behavioral change in their lives. MI counseling skills have been used extensively in a variety of helping professions including: substance use treatment, mental health counseling, clinical supervision, behavioral healthcare, juvenile and adult parole and probation, coaching, child welfare, educational settings, and the medical field. Join us at this interactive workshop to take a quick tour through the history and research behind MI, and to participate in practice exercises involving MI skills. This course is designed for those new to MI, and those seeking refresher training.

Location: Ansari Business Building, Room 205
